Edward J. Bloustein School
of Planning and Public Policy

Annual Spring Symposium and Healthcare Workshop Presented by the Rutgers Master of Health Administration Program

Life Sciences and Healthcare Institutions: Partners for Life

Wednesday, April 26, 2023 | 12:00 - 6:00 p.m.

at the Cook Campus Center
59 Biel Road, New Brunswick, NJ
on the campus of Rutgers University

The interplay between health systems and the life sciences is a critical driver in the discovery and development of new therapies and cures. This symposium is designed to provide insight into the respective roles of health systems and the life sciences that foster the development of lifesaving and life-enhancing research and solutions. This half-day event will include several panel discussions and include representatives from select health systems, pharmaceutical and life science companies, and patient advocates. The audience will consist of students, faculty, healthcare executives, industry representatives and the media.

The symposium will include three panels of approximately 50 minutes each followed by questions from the audience.
